FOOT BALL.

This week a systematic effort will b made to put a representative foot ball team in the field. The plans are not in shape yet to be divulged, but within three days the probable eleven will be named. The material will be drafted from Wheeling and surrounding towns, and work on the schedule of games for the season will be begun right away. year, but it will be fast and there is the welcome probability that it will be given greater encouragement by the public.

Will Edwards, the Actnaville foot ball player, returned home Saturday even-ing from the Klondike, after an absence since March, 1898. It is understood that his luck was only fair.

Dulin Barrett, last year's popular centre, may wear a Wheeling uniform for one or two games this fall. During the summer one of his eyes was injured by a piece of hot steel, and while he will be taking great risk, Dulin says he can't keep out of the game.

The Carlisle Indians defeated the Uni-The Carlisic Indians detented the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday, the first time the Indians ever defeated one of the "Big Four," although they scored against them often. It was the third defeat for "Old Penn" since 1893.

BASE BALL'S WIND-UP

Came Yesterday With the Games at Cincinnati and Chicago.

The base ball season of 1899 closed yesterday with the games at Chicago and Cincinnati. So far as the champlouship went the buttle in the National league was decided more than a week ago, when Brooklyn had won sufficient games. Reviewing the season just ended, President "Nick" Young, of the National league, says:

There has been a gratifying revival There has been a gratifying revival of interest in base ball during the seafour about to closs. Every club in the sational League has more than cleared expenses, and several of the first division clubs have paid their owners handsome profits. The fact that all of the league clubs made money is the best evidence of the continued popularity of the actional grame. Additional evidence on that point is derived from the fact that a greater number of minor league. Third Haseman Jud Smith.

clubs played out the season than ever before since the national agreement clubs played out the season than ever before since the national agreement went into operation.

To far as I am advised, the twelve-club agreement, which has two years more to run, will be carried out. The subject will probably come up for consideration at the annual meeting to be held in New Tork mart December.

"One of the most striking features of the present season has been the general improvement in batting. When the official records are promujated they will show that more players have batted above the 300 mark than ever before. Free hitting is always attractive to the patrons of the game, and artists in that line, like Delehanty, Burkett, Keeler, Beaumont, Stahl, Freeman, Ryan and McGraw, impire their fellows to cultivate the science.

"Two propositions are now being agitated which will receive consideration at the coming annual meeting. One is to curtail the playing season and the other is to do away with the double umpire system. A season beginning May I and ending October I would give the patrons of base ball as much of the sport as they desire in a single year. The double umpire system has not made good all that was claimed for it, and it is a very heavy expense upon the individual clubs. The umpires cost the league about $25,000 a year for salary and travoling expenses. I am convinced that an efficient umpire, standing just back of the pitcher's box, can render all the decisions that come up during the game with as much satisfaction as two men."

The Season Reviewed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In the National League base ball race just finished, excitement on the whole was at a discount. There were many exciting games and in some respects the playing generally speaking was high class. It was too much of a procession to be a race. Long before the season ended, the Brooklyns were conceded to be the coming champions, their lead after they once went to the front which was or May 22, seldom being so small as not to be reckoned as safe. The real fight was be reckoned as safe. The real fight was for second place. Boston gave indications at times of wresting the lead from Brooklyn, doing some playing in the west, but falling to put up the old invincible game at home. The Philadelphia team, which finished third in the race, were a bit too streaky to win the pennant, but still enough to be dangerous. They held the lead at one time in the first part of April, but by the middle of June they were as low as fifth. Baltimore finished fourth. In April and May they were in the second division, but they went into the first division with a rush. They jumped from Baltimore finished fourth. In April and May they were in the second division, but they were in the second division, but they were in the first division with a rush. They jumped from seventh place to third in the short space of two weeks. They have held fourth place for the last two and a half months. The St. Louis team proved disappointing. They were the only team besides the Brooklyns that held the lead for any length of time. At different times, however, they occupied every position in the first division, their close fight with the Cincinnatis for fifth place being one of the season's features. The Cincinnatis have to their credit the most remarkable spurt of the season, winning thirteen straight games. They were, however, once the race was fairly under way, never prominent for the pennant.

The Pittsburgh team was a second division factor from the start, but they did especially well in the last two months, when their playing was of first division calliere, and better than one or two teams just ahead of them.

The Chicagos, who started off well, gradually went down the scale winding up eighth and the Louisvilles did a shade worse. The New York team made the worst showing ever made by a New York League team. If may be said with grief of the New Yorks that they got away poorly and stayed there.

The Washington and Cleveland aggregations were next to last and last. The former was conspicuous for the great amount of experimenting in players that it did, and the persistency with which it hovered near the tail end.

Of the Clevelands, it can simply be said that no league team ever did so poorly.

MUSEE LEAGUE.

That the noble game of bowling has a great hold on the public was shown a great hold on the public was shown inst week when the Musee management opened the winter league. In spite of the counter attraction of the Pythian Knights he Musee league opened up with the largest crowds in its history. The interest which the spectators took in the sport was shown by frequent outbursts of applause when the boys did any exceptionally fine work. Ferhaps the finest work during the week was the work of the Daisles in taking a game from the Creacents. The game was won by a magnificent spurt on the part of the Daisles when it looked like sure defeat, and conclusively showed that these boys are made of the right stuff. The following is the schedule for this week.

The Columbia's crew is not suffering a bit from the many attempts to have a race, but the men would like to see a good sailing breeze before the snow flies, they say, as they are not anxious to handle sails when it is cold enough to stiffen the canvas and rigging. Most to stiffen the canwas and rigging. Most of the Shamrock's men were ashore at Sandy Hook all the forenoon. They visited as many points of interest about the place as the government officials would allow, Captains Hogarth, Wringe and Parker have predicted that there will be no wind until Tuesday or Wednesday, or until the moon changes, and as they made this statement several days ago to Sir Thomas Lipton and the opinion of these experts is well worth consideration.

Captain Matthews, of the Erin, a skipper with as long if not longer experience on the water, holds the contrary opinion and says that there is just likely to be a steady wind to-morrow as a week from that time, and that the change of moon has been proven by statistics to have nothing whatever to do with the weather conditions. Sir Thomas Lipton's patience is about exhausted, but he hopes to see the races finished this week. He said the reason he did not sail on the Shamrock during the races, his men did not want tim aboard as it was ant to make them of the Shamrock's men were ashore at Public Has Been Misled.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 .- There is a feelng among the Columbia people that the public has been misled to a degree in regard to the handling of the Columbia on race days. They feel that certain comments have been unjust in that they lead one to believe that Captain Barr is entirely alone so far as professional talent is concerned. A yachisman of national reputation, deeply interested in the Columbia's success, authorized the Associated Press to say that not only is Captain Barr not alone in the sailing of the American boat, but he has at all times at his side for immediate counsel and advice, the most skillful yacht sailor in all the world in the person of Nat Herreshoff. ablic has been misled to a degree in
